Chroma Cameras Has Launched a Modular Medium Format Film Camera

NOV 18, 2020 JARON SCHNEIDER

Share 93 Tweet 37 COMMENTS

Chroma Cameras, which was originally started in 2018 by Steve Lloyd via a successful Kickstarter, has launched its latest product: a modular, customizable camera system for 120mm film called the 679 System.

Following previous field camera designs, the Chroma Camera 679 system will allow you to build your own camera to fit your specific needs. For the 679 system, there are four standard components:

1. Removable acrylic lens board, with integrated metal helicoid for smooth focusing.
2. Thread aluminium lens board, to allow for lenses to be easily switched in the field.
3. Printed mid-body, available in any depth to suit the lens required, with integrated dual cold shoes on the top plate, and mounting points on both sides for optional accessories.
4. Printed film body, available in four different mounts: Kiev-88, Hasselblad, Mamiya RB, and Mamiya Press, along with a ground-glass version for critical composition/focusing. More mounts are currently in the works.

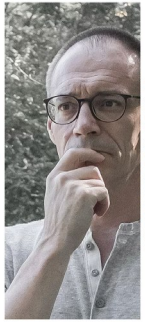
Das kreative Team stellt sich vor

Daniel Tscharner

Die Art und Weise wie ich heute die Kamera als Werkzeug zur Umsetzung von Bildideen verwende, hat sich eher spät entwickelt. Sie gibt mir die Freiheit, ausserhalb der gesellschaftlichen Konformität meine inneren Phantasiebilder als eigene Bilderwelten entstehen zu lassen.
Als Autodidakt macht es mir Spass, mit Technik, Materialien und Personen in einem kreativen Prozess zu experimentieren. Dabei steht nicht das «schöne» Porträt im Vordergrund. Das Ziel ist eher der Weg zum Bild um dabei möglichst nahe an das im Voraus entstandene (diffuse) Kopfbild zu gelangen.



Anna-Rosa Tscharner

Bilder mit Menschen, die Geschichte dazu und die Frage, wie ein Bild entstanden ist, faszinierten mich schon immer. Den Mut selber Bilder zu machen, fand ich zum ersten Mal vor drei Jahren. Heute, nach zahlreichen Shootings, habe ich viele tolle Menschen durch das Fotografieren kennengelernt. Geschichten erlebt, Fotoprojekte umgesetzt und viele Erfahrungen gesammelt. Habe ich die Kamera einmal in der Hand, kann ich es kaum erwarten loszulegen. Fotografieren ist wie ein Abenteuer: man weiss nie, wo dieses hinführt. Alles ist offen, vieles ist Möglich!
